John joined Joseph Tan Jude Benny as a pupil in 2003 and was made Deputy Managing Partner in January 2015.

John's practice is in broad base commercial litigation, with a specialization in maritime related disputes.

For maritime matters, John is regularly instructed by leading insurers, major shipyards, listed commodities companies and oil majors on a mixture of both wet and dry shipping disputes, including bills of lading and charterparty claims, P&I, H&M and cargo insurance matters, vessel collision, shipyard related disputes, ship arrests, contractual disputes relating to vessel and offshore equipment supplies, brokerage, ship finance, bunker supplies, warehouse, multimodal transport and cargo documentation.

John is regularly instructed as counsel in arbitrations, and has acted as lead counsel in arbitrations seated in Singapore, Hong Kong and London. These include both ad hoc and administrated arbitrations, including arbitrations under SCMA, SIAC, HKIAC, LMAA and ICC terms.

John's non-maritime litigation work includes commercial and tort disputes, mainly in the IT, Oil & Gas and construction sectors.
